Thank you for the opportunity to serve as president this year. The PCAHBA has helped me become more in touch with our industry, gain more knowledge and given me access to a wonderful network of professionals. It has increased my opportunity to become more successful, and perpetuated my enthusiasm toward my profession. But, most of all, it has given me many new friendships.

I want to send a warm thank you to all the officers and committee members from 2010, with a special thanks to Jason Moore for his year as president and all of the time, energy and effort that it takes to fill the position. Continued thanks to all that are involved in such a fantastic organization.

I encourage those of you that want to get more out of the HBA to become active and involved by attending monthly membership meetings, volunteering to become a part of a committee and utilizing the talents and professionalism of fellow members. May 2011 bring good fortune and a welcome break to all of us that have survived the difficult time that it has been in such a hard hit industry.

Thanks,
Todd Evans, Blackdog Builders

Utah Builder's Conference and Trade Show

April 7-8 2011, Layton Convention Center

This is a great opportunity for builders, associate members and other businesses to come together and learn. A huge variety of continuing education classes are on offer, as well as vendor exhibits.

There will be also be a Dinner Reception and Casino Night on Thursday April 7th from 5-9pm

For more information and registration forms, please visit www.utahhba.com.

Blood Drive a Great Success

Thanks to all who braved the weather to participate in the PCAHBA blood drive held in association with Stock Building Supply on February 25th. The Red Cross collected a magnificent 19 units of blood from our volunteers, 12 of whom were first timers. Follow our Facebook page for future opportunities to donate.

Continuing Education

If you hold a Contractor's License, the chances are you will need to renew it in 2011. To do so you will need 6 hours of continuing education credits.

(you can find out more information on contractor licensing at www.dopl.utah.gov/licensing/contracting.html)

PCAHBA will be running relevant, DOPL approved classes throughout the year to help you get your credits efficiently and locally. To find a complete list of available courses, go to www.PCAHBA.com and check upcoming events.

Build Green Utah News

Interested in Building Green?

Tom Ward, local Realtor with Jess Reid Real Estate and Certified Ecobroker, tells us that green components and certifications are becoming an important element in property values and that Certified Green homes are starting to enjoy a real market advantage over conventionally built homes.

As a result of this growing interest, The Park City Board of Realtors and Wasatch Front Regional Multiple Listing Services have added searchable fields for Energy Star, NAHB Green and LEED certified homes to their listings, as well as other sustainable and energy efficient features.

Build Green Utah is your local green building organization, Members of the PCAHBA and other HBAs in Utah are invited to join BGU and to take advantage of their training courses and classes, and receive the recognition and promotion available on the BGU website.

A no-cost membership is available for those whose products, building or business practices are energy efficient or sustainable.

To find out more, contact Tom Ward at 435 647 3727 or tward@xmission.com.

Green Build Conference Comes to Utah

In the first week of May 2011 the NAHB Regional "Green Build Conference" is coming to Salt Lake City. Builders from around the country will be attending this conference and part of the conference will involve tours of various LEED and Energy Star Homes in the Greater Park City and Salt Lake areas.

More information on this conference is available at www.nahb.org/greenbuildingconference.
